Announcement and Call for Papers

No application accepted after 11thOctober, 2016

The conference organizing committee are honoured to invite you to be part of a dialogue about common contemporary challenges facing the field of English language teaching and learning. It is obvious that changes in the economic, social, and educational contexts were behind the increasing challenges that the field of ELT has to meet in the early decades of the 21st century. In fact, the demands of today's world and the recent changes and challenges brought up by the impacts of globalization and the growth of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) require a revolution in teaching and learning.

In a knowledge-based and highly digital society, there is a growing interest in bridging the gap between the skills being developed in schools and universities and those required by the job market and the skills of a literate 21st century citizen.

The conference, which will be an opportunity to advance professionalism and excellence in English language teaching and learning, aims at:

- exploring the English language skills and key competencies that will enable the students as future agents of change to cope with life in the 21st Century.
- exploring new pedagogical approaches and creating a network of educators from the four sectors (primary, secondary, tertiary and vocational) working in the field of English Language teaching in order to foster collaboration on the ongoing challenges facing the field and to develop means to promote professionalism and excellence.
- bringing together teachers, researchers, publishers, entrepreneurs and representatives from the professional world and from the civil society to discuss key issues around promoting civic values, life skills, peace and tolerance through English language instruction preparing students to learn, work, and live in a global community.

TATE 2016 conference is intended to be a forum for exploring different avenues to promote professionalism and excellence in ELT by focusing on high quality input and its impact on learners' output. The conference offers a full range of papers, publisher presentations, workshops, poster sessions and Special Interest Groups meetings and discussions.

Participants are invited to submit their proposals to be evaluated by the scientific committee on the basis of their relevance to the conference theme.

Proposals can be submitted on any of the following areas:

- ✓ Teacher certification and Continuous Professional Development (CPD)
- ✓ Teaching English to young learners
- ✓ ELT at tertiary level
- ✓ Languages and employability
- ✓ Language testing and assessment
- ✓ Innovation and change in ELT
- ✓ New trends in ELT methodology

- ✓ ESP (English for Specific Purposes) and CLIL
- ✓ (Content and Language Integrated Learning)
- ✓ ELT and vocational education
- ✓ Curriculum development and syllabus design
- ✓ Quality assurance of language learning
- ✓ Educational policies/ reforms and implementation
- ✓ Technology in teaching, learning and the job market
- ✓ Literature and teaching
- ✓ Teaching / learning needs in the 21st century
- ✓ Cross cultural understanding
